Our Neighbors Deserve an Inpatient Hospice Unit

ABOUT CTMC
Central Texas Medical Center (CTMC) is a non-profit health ministry focused on extending the healing ministry of Christ. We have done so for the last twenty years by serving the needs of the terminally ill through our CTMC Hospice Care outpatient service. This year, we’re addressing the inpatient needs of these individuals through a special new unit in the hospital designed for hospice patients and those who love them.

WHAT IS A HOSPICE INPATIENT UNIT?
The new CTMC Inpatient Hospice Unit will be the only one of its kind between Austin and San Antonio. It will provide a faith-based, compassionate, home-like setting for hospice patients who need short-term hospitalization to manage a situation that cannot effectively be treated in the home. In addition, short-and-long-term residential care will be provided in the unit on a private pay basis for those seeking an alternative to in-home or nursing home care.

The unit is available to all hospice patients and agencies for any inpatient hospital need or for any hospice patients needing residential (private pay) treatment. Features will include private, family counseling room and a living room where families can gather and rest. Family pets will also be welcome.

Additional amenities for family include reserved parking, a private entrance, access to the chapel, gardens, coffee shop and cafeteria.

WHEN WILL THE INPATIENT UNIT OPEN?
CTMC plans to open this new unit in November during National Hospice Month and will only reach the goal through support from generous donors. As a non-profit hospital and hospice agency, we need your help to make this dream a reality. As more Central Texans age, the demand for this specialized care is growing.

Don’t you and your loved ones deserve the choice to die with dignity in a faith-based, compassionate, home-like atmosphere?

“...In my Father’s house are many rooms. If it were not so, would I have told you that I go to prepare a place for you? And if I go and prepare a place for you, I will come again and will take you to myself, that where I am you may be also.”

John 14:2-4
